“It made sense for us to choose Concarneau, Cornouaille, as a base for Kairos. Here there is a thriving port activity, curbing the risk of isolation. It's also very pretty, we're lucky in Brittany, there's something magical about it! We have strong ties with the sea but also with the land. Concarneau covers a vast territory, where the land and sea live in symbiosis. We have created an enriching ecosystem. Many young people, often engineers, come to spend time with us. They discover Concarneau and Brittany, and most of them settle here! So there really must be something special about this place...”

Sophie Vercelletto is one of Quimper Cornouaille's Top Talents. Her motto: “The pleasure of giving and receiving”. She is inspired by her partner Roland. Sophie is brimming with talent. After studying law, Sophie went on to become CEO of the Vendée Globe, then Co-Director of Kairos, a company in the field of offshore sailing races, and co-founder together with skipper Roland Jourdain of the Fonds Explore, an incubator for innovative exploration projects with a positive impact for the planet.

“Our parents decided to set up La Compagnie Bretonne at the epicentre of Cornouaille’s fishing harbours. Today, we are carrying on this tradition, proud of this heritage and this very dynamic area. Here we are close to our fishery partners. We aim to be forward-looking to ensure the canning trade thrives and evolves. In early 2020, we moved to a new production site that we chose to open up to the public and to tourism. As a living heritage enterprise, we are keen to explain what we do and show how our teams work.”

My workshops are designed for them, as well as for local companies, for example for business incentives. Innovation in our genes

Cornouaille's industry developed through innovation. Back in the 19th century, canneries cashed in on the novel concept of airtight food preservation invented by Nicolas Appert. Today, with over 3,000 product innovations each year, the agri-food industry, especially in Brittany, sets itself apart thanks to its strong propensity to innovate.

This innovation reflex and pioneering mindset can be seen across all sectors, from century-old businesses to fledgling start-ups, not forgetting freelancers.
